WALTER G. SMITH - EDITOR

FRIDAY : : : : MARCH 7

The chances are pretty fair that Great Britain will see Germany and go her one better by sending over the Prince of Wales.

The Democrats will run a candidate for the Gillilan vacancy if the Republicans do, but most of them hope the Republicans will know better.

The remarks of Chairman Knox on the Kohala ditch job and about Wilcox's bills, shows that distance has not clouded his official views of things Hawaiian.

It is pleasant to know that Kona has a chance, not only to escape the wreckers, judicial and otherwise, but to go on doing business. The conspiracy to ruin it has awakened an amount of popular resentment which bids fair to become the means of the rescue and upbuilding of the property. In that event the press which called public notice to the bunco game which was going on, should have the credit for a most satisfactory piece of public service.

The owner and manager of a disorderly house may be indicted, but those who run disorderly tram cars are supposed to go scot-free. Two occurrences reported in today's Advertiser throw a heavy responsibility upon the management of the local mule line. In other cities the man in charge of a car, whether driver or conductor, is supposed to eject any one who disturbs the peace, but here a drunken woman may hold carnival among her fellow passengers, and even publicly insult a priest without causing any other emotion on the driver's part than that of mirth. The only passenger a driver will lay hands on is one who refuses to pay his fare. All others, whether drunk, disorderly or riotous, may do as they please.

The arrangements at New York for the entertainment of Prince Henry were bad, and at Shooters Island, where the Meteor was launched, everything went wrong. Americans generally lose their heads when they try to give the royalty and aristocracy of Europe a good time. At the ball tendered to the Prince of Wales in 1860, he was nearly mobbed, and incidentally part of the dancing floor fell. The Grand Duke Alexis was made to shake hands with all comers, and the Infanta Eulalia, to her Bourbon horror, found herself at a ball in Chicago, where, as she complained, her hostess was the wife of her inn-keeper. Apparently there has not been much advance in Eastern etiquette since the first Turkish ambassador was entertained by the New York Board of Aldermen with ham sandwiches and beer, delicacies which, as a Mussulman, he could not touch.

CARE OF THE BODY.

A doctor in Kansas is delivering lectures on the best means of caring for the human body. He says we eat too many things, and gives a novel illustration of this fact. The whale, he says, has seven stomachs with which to digest all kinds of fish. The cow has four stomachs for the digestion of the different kinds of grass. The dog has one stomach for the digestion of meat. The monkey has one stomach for the digestion of nuts and fruits. That makes thirteen different kinds of stomachs required for as many different kinds of food, yet man will shovel all these foods, and more, too, into one stomach and expect it to digest them well. One rule laid down by the doctor is that we should eat nothing that is hot when it is cold; that is, pepper, ginger, mustard and such warm-cold things. "It is said by a French scientist," announced the doctor, "that pepper has six times the power of alcohol in creating what is known as a 'gin' liver."

Nature shows in the structure and variety of its teeth that man was intended to use a mixed diet, and he has done so without the impairment of his health. Saying nothing of the more or less apocryphal tales of Scriptural longevity, it remains true that the span of life is lengthening rather than contracting. In the nineteenth century it averaged longer by ten years than in the eighteenth, and the nineteenth saw the widest possible diffusion of the world's edible products. We eat a greater variety of things in Hawaii today than they did in London a century ago—and we live longer. So, no matter about the absence of plural stomachs. The one stomach the human animal possesses performs its functions as well as do the four stomachs of the cow; and one generation of man is equal to three of the bovine species.

As to the rule of the Kansas doctor that pepper, ginger and mustard should be eschewed, there is something to be said for and against. Where the climate is cold and the body active, the use of condiments may be dropped without depriving the body of anything it needs. But not so in warm countries where, sooner or later, lassitude binds one like a chain. When active exercise is not or cannot be taken, something must be done to energize the liver. With brute animals, nature often compels such exercise, as by giving fleas to dogs. But for these insects dogs in the tropics would die young from the effects of indolence. There is no exterior compulsion for man, however, but in all warm countries he has found substitute in the stimulating properties of spice. In the city of India he ate curries and

REV. DR. SERENO E. BISHOP
RETIRES FROM EDITORIAL DUTY

The current number of The Friend says:

It is with the greatest satisfaction that we make the announcement that after the present issue, The Friend will pass into the hands of editors appointed by the Hawaiian Board. The responsible editor will be the Rev. John Leidingham, the able principal of the North Pacific Mission Institute, who will enjoy the co-operation of several other members of the Board. Mr. Theodore Richards, the Treasurer of the Board, will be the business manager of the paper. A program of the new plans will appear in the April issue.

The present editor greatly welcomes this change. With a markedly increasing abatement of both bodily and mental strength, at the age of seventy-five years, he has been growing very sensible that it must be only a short time before this pleasant duty, which has occupied him for nearly fifteen years, must be resigned into stronger hands. It has been a cause of much anxiety, which could be found to undertake it. At the influence of Spain, his food is cooked in red pepper. Other regions of the sun are noted for their spicy drinks; all have some natural liverwort, and without it they would die. So what is sauce for Kansas, as our medical friend should observe, may not be sauce for those whose lives are spent under the vertical sun.

DR. BISHOP'S RETIREMENT.

The current number of The Friend, the oldest paper west of the Rocky Mountains, announces the retirement of its editor, the Rev. Sereno E. Bishop, D. D. For fifteen years Dr. Bishop has carried on The Friend, and in its columns has done service for religion, morality and good government that even the honor in which his fellow citizens hold him cannot adequately repay. No good cause, appealing in any strong particular sense to the people of these islands, or to humanity at large, has failed to find in The Friend an earnest, powerful and scholarly advocate.

Dr. Bishop retires gratefully, and, as respects the future of the paper, hopefully. At the age of seventy-five, he finds the burden of editorial responsibility too great, and is glad that younger men, competent for such a task, have relieved him of it. Hereafter the Rev. John Leidingham will be the editor, and Theodore Richards the business manager. Under their care The Friend will suffer no abatement of its vigor.

There is now no plague in the city of Manila.

J. A. Fillmore, for many years general superintendent of the Southern Pacific Railroad, is dead.

The Republican members of the House discussed the Cuban bill, but reached no understanding.

The Boers captured a convoy of empty wagons, consisting of a force of British imperial yeomanry, three companies of fusiliers and two guns.

Governor McSweeney of South Carolina scores Tillman and McLaurin, and regrets that he did not accept their resignations when they were tendered.

Lieutenant Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, brother of the Senator, has asked the President to withdraw his acceptance of an invitation to present a sword to a South Carolina hero of the Spanish war.

The Transports. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 26.—The transport Egbert sailed from Manila for this port on February 18, and will come by way of Honolulu, bringing two battalions of the Twenty-eighth Infantry and 312 short-term men. The Sheridan left Manila last Sunday, bringing 97 sick, 6 insane, 1,189 short-term men and the headquarters of the First and Third Battalions of the Twenty-eighth Infantry. The Twenty-the opportune moment, the Hawaiian Board enter with this most welcome proposition. It has seemed as a special interposition of Providence, to continue the existence of the valued paper, which has long been the oldest newspaper west of the Rocky mountains.

The Friend was started in January, 1833, by the Rev. Samuel C. Damon, who had arrived in Honolulu during the previous year as chaplain to seamen. At first it bore the title of "Temperance Advocate." To this name in February were added the words "and Seamen's Friend." In January, 1844, it became "The Friend of Temperance and Seamen," and in January, 1845, simply "The Friend," under which title it has continued as a monthly journal to the present time.

Under the new management and plans we are sanguine of a great increase in the value of the paper, and of a large addition to its subscription list. There can be no doubt that this long and greatly valued journal is about to enter upon a new and most prosperous period. Our best heart wishes go with it.

The classical cannibal: "But why," asked the sub-chief of the Cannibal Isles, "do you insist upon having the man who fell while leading the charge against us served up at the banquet this evening? He seems to be hard as nails." "Huh!" answered the chief of the Cannibal Isles, "I read in a book of poetry left by our last meal that 'the bravest are the tenderest.'"—Baltimore American.

Parvenue—I hear the Newriches claim to be better off than we are. Mrs. Parvenue—That's perfectly ridiculous. Everybody knows we have more money. Why, we receive over twice as many begging letters as they do.—Town Topics.

Sore Throat

For sore throat and pains in the chest there is no medicine that gives relief so quickly and does so much good as Halpruner's Pain Remover. There is nothing like it to drive pain and inflammation from the body—it does it so quickly a d it does not do you any harm.

Rub Halpruner's Pain Remover into the pores of the skin of the throat and chest, also take a tablespoonful in a wine glass of water or milk every hour—you won't have to take it long.

Don't let the druggist talk you out of Halpruner's. It is prescribed and compounded to cure your ills and is a medicine you ought to have. Demand Halpruner's—50c and $1 a bottle—25 California St., San Francisco.

Halpruner's

"TO THE PUBLIC—I suffered with a severe sore throat four days after the opera 'Theodora' at the Tivoli Opera House. I used Dr. Halpruner's Pain Remover as a gargle and to bath my neck, and found instant relief; in fact, I was almost immediately cured and was able to continue my role in the opera." Rheumatism

Is a rack on which you need not suffer long.

It depends on an acid condition of the blood, which affects the muscles and joints, causes inflammation and pain, and results from defective digestion and a torpid action of the liver, kidneys and skin. Sciatica, lumbago and stiff neck are forms of it.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured me of rheumatism. I was so I could not lift anything and my knees were so stiff I could hardly get up or down stairs. Since taking three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I have never felt a symptom of rheumatism, and I gladly recommend Hood's for this disease." MRS. HATTIE TURNER, Bolivar, Mo.

The New Prism Reflector For Incandescent Lamps.

If it is illumination you want—not decoration alone—you should use a prism reflector. They are made under a scientific principle, from superior white glass and not only increase the efficiency of your lights from fifty to one hundred per cent, but give a complete diffusion and consequent softening of the light. The Prism Reflector removes all glare and the light is both hygienic and agreeable in quality. They are very beautiful in appearance; cast no shadow like ordinary reflectors. In three sizes @ 60c, 75c and $1.00. We have them attached to lamps in our office for the purpose of showing them to visitors.
